WHAT'S INCLUDED?

A LOOK AT THE FLIP BOOK

Early Life Jane Goodall was given a stuffed chimpanzee as a child. Her love for the toy sparked her interest in animals.	Her Big Achievement While Jane Goodall discovered many things about chimpanzees, she is most well known for her work toward the conservation of nature and animals. Goodall spent most of her adult life trying to keep animals from being tested on and being hunted. She traveled and gave speeches constantly in an attempt to stop people from cutting down the natural habitat of animals. Her work earned her countless awards.

Thomas Jefferson

Thomas Jefferson was born in Virginia. He did well in school and read books all the time when he was young. As a young man, he was a lawyer for a short time. He joined the Second Continental Congress early in 1775. In the summer of 1776, they decided that Jefferson should write the document known as the Declaration of Independence. This stated that America would no longer take orders from Great Britain. He won the 1800 presidential election and became the 3rd President of the United States. In 1803, he made the Louisiana Purchase, which more than doubled the size of the United States. In 1819, Jefferson founded the University of Virginia for students wanting to study new areas.

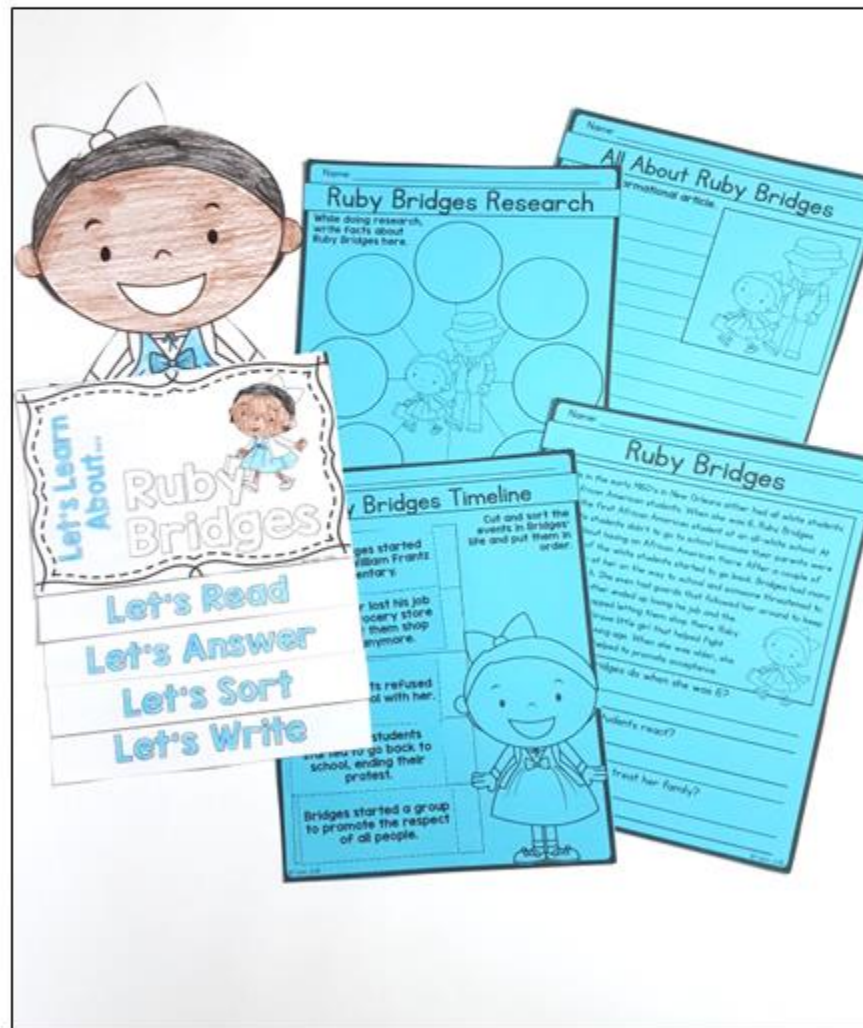

1. What did the Declaration of Independence do?
2. How did the Louisiana Purchase affect the United States?

WHAT TEACHERS THINK

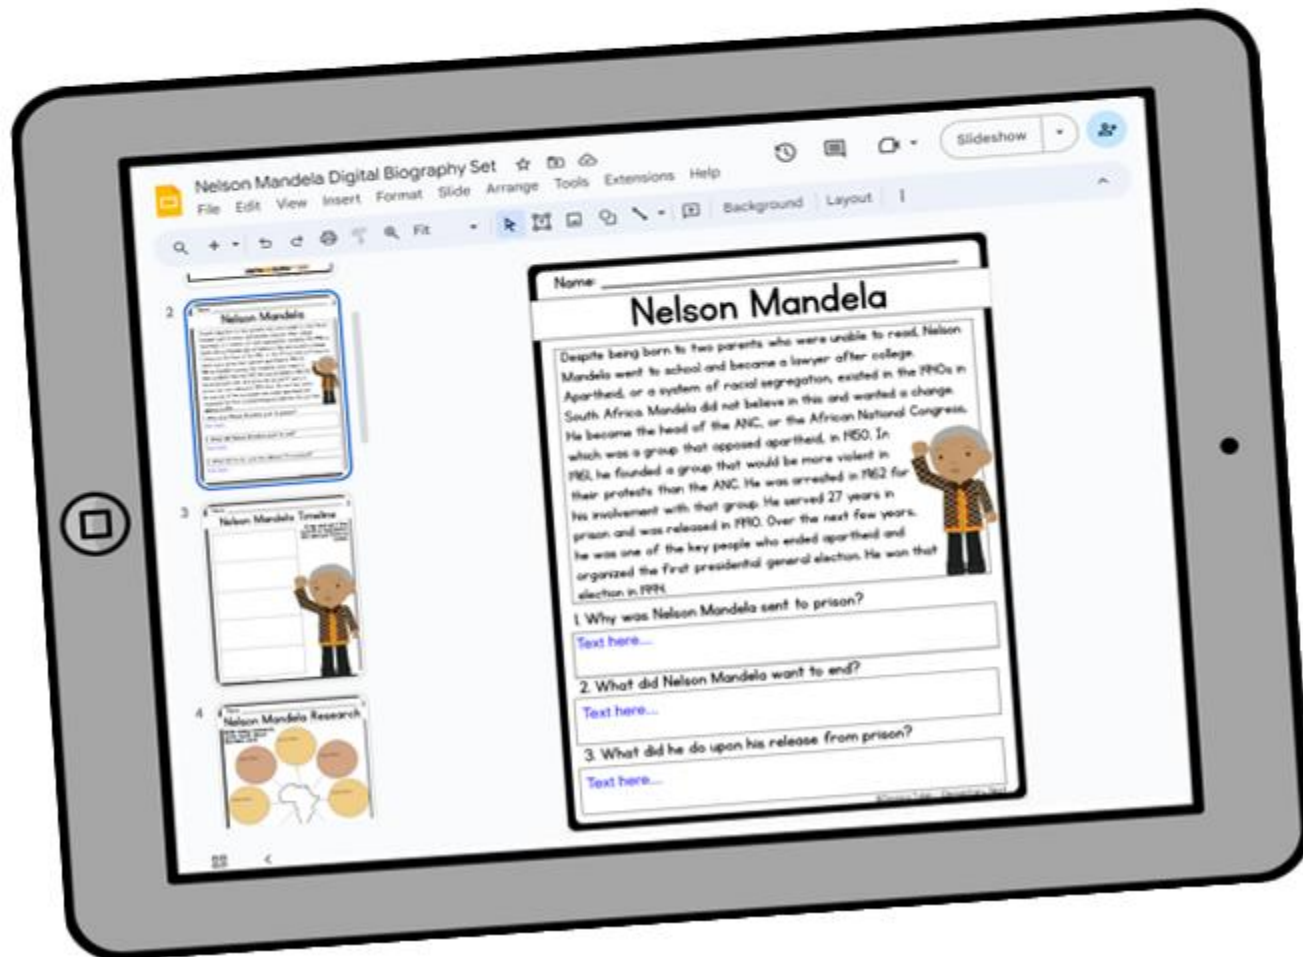

"Loved this resource. It provided me with enough historical/famous figures so that I could assign each student their own. The passages were easy for them to read independently and had plenty of facts for them to use in their writing. This resource was perfect for our informational writing projects; I will continue using it each year."

"We used this create a wax museum. Each student was assigned one famous person to study. They used the information in the resource to research their famous person. Highly recommend."
